RE: Study on Fair Rates:

To Whom It May Concern:

The telephone rates keep increasing for those that pay their bills. I agree the sick and disabled should be helped however, draw a line.

There are people on food stamps that have money for brand new cars and can afford to play the lottery every week. Also people who are living in their parents homes drawing Housing Assistance. Why should we be paying for their telephone service? We pay for their food, clothing, medical, and utility bills as well as their new cars because they don't have to work and don't want to.

Our pension checks don't go up as fast as taxes and utilities. Also we have to pay for all our food and cars.
