Florida Power & Light Request for Extension

On February 27, 2006, FPL requested that the confidential classification, granted by Commission Order PSC-04-0841-CFO-EG to identified portions of documents 07733-02, 07953-02 and 11029-02, be extended for another 18 month period.

On March 8, 2006, FPL withdrew its February 27, 2006, request for a second extension of confidential classification for this material. The utility presumed that the confidential materials, copies of staff's audit working papers, had been returned to FPL along with the highlighted copies provided by the company (Documents 07953-06 and 11029-02). This was not the case as staff's original working papers will remain on file for 25 years (Document 07733-02).

Later on March 8, 2006, after discussions with the staff concerning the facts in the case, the utility advised the staff to disregard the withdrawal and to proceed with the request for a second extension of confidential classification for this material.

Staff advised FPL that their filing for a second extension of confidential classification was incomplete. Documents 07953-02 and 11029-02 which provided highlighted copies of the sensitive information would have to be returned to the Commission.

On March 20, 2006, the utility filed copies of the sensitive material with the confidential information highlighted (Document 02446-06). This filing completed FPL's request for a second extension of confidential classification.

On June 29, 2006, the Commission issued Order No. PSC-06-0558-CFO in Docket 060002-EG granting Florida Power and Light company's request for a second extension of the confidential period for the information contained in documents 07733-02 and 02446-06.

On December 14, 2007, FPL requested a third extension for information contained in staff's audit working papers Document No. 07733-02. The request references redacted documents provided for public use (Document No. 11028-02, Exhibit B) and copies with the confidential information highlighted (Document No. 02446-02).

Documents 07332-02 and 02446-06 are held by the Bureau of Records in a confidential status awaiting the response to FPL's request for a third extension of confidential classification.

Pursuant to Section 119.07, F.S., documents submitted to this Commission are public records. The only exceptions to this law are specific statutory exemptions and exemptions granted by governmental agencies pursuant to the specific items of a statutory provision. Subsections 366.093(3)(b) and (e), F.S., provide the following exemptions.

Subsection 366.093, F.S., provides; “Proprietary confidential business information means information, regardless of form or characteristics, which is owned or controlled by the person or company, is intended to be and is treated by the person or company as private in that the disclosure of the information would cause harm to the ratepayers or the person’s or company’s business operations, and has not been disclosed unless disclosed pursuant to a statutory provision, an order of a court or administrative body, or private agreement that provides that the information will not be released to the public. Proprietary confidential business information includes but is not limited to:

(b) Internal auditing controls and reports of internal auditors

(e) Information relating to competitive business interests, the disclosure of which would impair the competitive business of the provider of the information....”

According to Section 366.093, F.S., and Rule 25-22.006, FAC, the utility has the burden of demonstrating that materials qualify for confidential classification. According to Rule 25-22.006, FAC, the utility must meet this burden by demonstrating that the information is proprietary confidential business information, the disclosure of which will cause the utility, the provider of the information or the ratepayer harm.

Staff Analysis of the Request

FPL’s request meets the requirements set out by Rule 25-22.006(4), FAC:

The request is clearly stated in writing;

The justification as to which material should be considered for confidential treatment is identified by page and line;

A copy of the information is provided with the confidential information highlighted;

Two public copies of the information with the confidential information redacted is provided; and

An affirmative statement is provided reporting that the information is intended to be and is treated as private and has not been disclosed.

Staff has filed the original copy of the audit working papers containing the sensitive information and FPL has made 3 requests for extension of the classification period enabling a confidential classification for this material. An analysis of FPL’s filings is presented below to make clear which documents were used by the staff in understanding FPL’s request and making this recommendation.

Staff Analysis

Reading the filing reveals the sensitive material pertains to information from an audit pertaining to FPL's 2001 conservation cost recovery program expenditures and revenues. The working papers from the audit were filed on July 24, 2002. FPL asserts this material is not dated or stale. The material consists of:

- 1). Internal auditing controls and reports of internal auditors.

Witness Robert Onsgard, FPL Manager, Internal Auditing, identifies material concerning reports of internal auditors and internal auditing controls within FPL's request. Specifically Mr. Onsgard identifies internal auditing materials within staff working papers entitled: "Internal Audits" and "Notes from Internal Audits." Mr. Onsgard represents these documents continue to be proprietary confidential business information and should be accorded a confidential classification for an additional 18 months.

Staff notes Section 366.093(b), F.S., provides that internal auditing controls and reports of internal auditors may be granted a confidential classification.

- 2). Business plans and strategies of FPL
- 3). Customer-specific account information.

Witness Ken Getchell, FPL Budget and Regulatory Support Manager, identifies customer-specific account information within staff working papers entitled: "RTP Factors for July 2001", "Billing Invoices for July and September 2001", "Sample Testing", "Incentives", and "CILC(Commercial/Industrial Load Control) Incentives." Mr. Getchell also identifies sensitive competitive business information within staff's working papers titled "Invoices."

Mr. Getchell represents these documents continue to be proprietary confidential business information and should be accorded a confidential classification for an additional 18 months. Ms. Getchell further reports; "...FPL has a corporate policy not to disclose customer-specific information. This policy includes, but is not limited to; customer names, addresses, telephone numbers, account numbers, rates, billing determinates (kW and kWh usage), conservation savings in kW, kWh and bills. FPL treats such information as confidential and does not disclose it, except as required by law, to entities or persons other than the customer without the permission of that customer."

Further Mr. Getchell reports disclosure of the proprietary confidential business information may impair FPL's competitive business interests.

Section 366.093(3)(e), F.S., provides the Commission may grant a confidential classification to sensitive competitive business information if its release which would harm the provider of the information. We agree the sensitive information identified by FPL is qualifying competitive business information and recommend the information be granted a confidential classification.

Information Held as Confidential

FPL reports the confidential information within the filing meets the definition of confidential information set out in Section 366.093, F.S. and the utility witnesses, Mr. Onsgard and Mr. Getchell, indicate that the information identified by them is held as confidential by FPL and this information is not released to the public.

Duration of the Confidential Classification Period

FPL requests that this material be returned to the utility once the information is no longer needed for the Commission to conduct its business.

According to the provisions of Section 366.093(4), F.S., absent good cause shown, confidential classification is limited to 18 months. In the instant case, FPL is requesting that documents filed with the Commission in 2002 be granted a confidential classification in 2007. The Commission has previously determined how to treat materials that are sensitive over a long period of time.

Commission Order No. PSC-03-1436-CFO-EG provides that customer-specific account information such as customer name, address, and usage is sensitive competitive business information and found that customer-specific information is eligible for a confidential classification for up to 10 years if the utility demonstrates good cause that the customer information should be so protected. In this case, FPL has protected its customer account information with an original request for a confidential classification and 3 subsequent requests to extend the confidential classification period. In addition, FPL requests that the customer account information be returned to the utility when the Commission no longer needs the information. We find FPL has shown cause for a longer classification for its customer-specific account information and recommend that the confidential period for customer account information be granted for 5 years.

Also, Commission Order No. 94-1224-CFO-EI, issued on October 6, 1994, in Docket 940001-EI, found that 5 years is an appropriate time for sensitive commercial materials to remain confidential. The Commission found that after five years have lapsed the circumstances surrounding sensitive information can change rendering the information no longer sensitive. The Commission found that an additional classification period could be granted beyond the five year period but only if the utility fully justified an additional extension. Here all the commercial information has been on file for less than a full five calendar years. We therefore recommend that a 3rd extension of confidential classification for 18 months be granted to Internal Audit information and 'other' sensitive competitive business information.

Staff Recommendation

Based upon reading the filing, and for the reasons presented above, we recommend the utility's request for extension of classification period be granted and that the identified internal audit and sensitive competitive business information be granted a third 18 month extension of confidential classification. For the material identified as sensitive customer account information, we recommend a 3rd extension of the classification period be granted for 5 years.
