Good morning, Mr. Haber,

I just spoke with atty Martha Barrera in our General Counsel's Office. She advised that she will be calling you, today, regarding the corrected testimony. She advised that the correction(s) to the testimony were related to formatting only, and that a cover letter advising of same would be appropriate, for the convenience of the parties.

For additional clarification, and to answer to your question below, the initial testimony (DN 03800-15) was accepted, as filed on 6/22/15. The corrected version of the testimony (Email ID 5002) was not accepted and, per atty Martha Barrera, should be followed-up with a subsequent filing, to include a cover letter advising that the changes are related to formatting only.

Thank you.

Hi Dorothy,

Thank you for the response. It was Kyesha in the OGC's office that alerted me to the formatting issue. She indicated that there should not be a problem with correcting the filing at a later time. I will endeavor to make take the steps you've suggested toward correcting this issue tomorrow.

In the meantime, will the initial filing still be accepted to ensure that my submission will not be considered a late filing?

Thank you.

Hi Matthew,

I appreciate your providing clarification regarding the document filing. Unfortunately, the document itself doesn't indicate that it's a corrected, revised, updated, amended, or otherwise changed version. Anyone looking at the filing on-line will see the same cover page, first page of the testimony, and certificate of service and not see that anything was changed, thus, it would appear to be a duplicate. Please note that the "title" submitted on-line is not considered a part of the record. It is similar to a fax transmittal sheet.

You will need to discuss this filing with the attorney assigned to the docket, regarding any appropriate language that should be used; whether a cover letter would suffice; the certificate of service should be updated; or if you will need to request to have the testimony received later than the 6/22/15 due date, as the Clerk's Office is not authorized to grant extensions, or to provide legal advice regarding the content of filings.

For future reference, in order for questions and comments to be quickly and accurately responded to, please for same to clerk@psc.state.fl.us. I hope you find this information helpful.

Hello Dorothy,

My second filing was a correction of the document I had filed earlier. They contain the same substance, but I was alerted to a minor formatting error in the first submission.

The second submission has correct formatting. Please let me know if it is still ineligible for e-filing.

Also the notice you sent states "If this is a corrected/amended/updated version, the filing itself needs to specify same."

The title of the file submitted states "(corrected)". Is this sufficient?

Thank you.

The document presented has been reviewed by the Office of Commission Clerk and found to be ineligible for e-filing because it appears to be a duplicate of DN 03800-15. If this is a corrected/amended/updated version, the filing itself needs to specify same.

If you have any questions, please contact the Office of Commission Clerk at clerk@psc.state.fl.us.
