Re: Docket Number 160021-E1

This request is one of the most blatant actions by any utility company that I have ever been aware of. Not satisfied with approx. a 10% profit for "donors/investors" they must be competitive and offer them 20% profit.

This is not about a stock in a Walmart or some other consumer business where users have a choice to go elsewhere if prices are too expensive, this is a necessary living need that users have NO alternative source to turn to. They must accept this or what.....have no major power source?

It seems like a throwback to the late 1800s and the Robber Baron Age. One could write much more regarding this situation, but I believe everyone knows what this is about. Sad if the state of Florida allows this.

Sincerely,

Robert Laudino
