Comments : The biggest problem that I can see is the lackluster efforts to keep the power lines clear of tree limbs. In my neighborhood hood alone I could show you at least 100 locations where trees are in direct contact with the highest power lines. We've had several power blips since the storm and I'm amazed that we don't loose power every day because of this situation. Some how with have to hold the power company and the property owner responsible for keeping the power lines clear on a continual basis.

Thank you
