Comments : During the last hurricane of August 2017, I was without power for six days. If I'd had a solar roof, my power would not have been interrupted and I would not have lost the food in my freezer and lost sleep from being hot and sweaty - it was August for God's sake.

Furthermore, if everyone was off the grid and could generate power independently, there would be no need for those hideous poles and lines running all over the neighborhood.

As a tax paying citizen, I should have the option to install solar tiles on my rood and remove myself from the grid. Why am I being help prisoner by a power company?
