The state of Florida is one of the sunny states in the United State. So, why don't we use a renewal and clean resource for our electricity. I've seen it work in the past.

In the Florida Keys there is a key called No Name Key. Electric company did not provide residences of this key with any power over a few decades. So, the residences used Solar Panel for all there electricity needs. About 10 years ago, the electric company finally started to make service available to the No Name Key residences, but they didn't need there serves since the Solar Panel provided them with more energy any of them needed. Now, the electric company is paying most the residences on No One Key to access there Solar Panels and use the extra energy to provide electricity to others in the Florida Keys.

So, why are we supporting Natural Gas with pipelines and drilling damage our beautiful state. When we have an endless amount of solar energy and less harmful to our environment.
