To whom it may concern,

I am informing you that I'm in favor of the FPL rate increase. I have stayed in Florida for many years. I have worked in the restaurant business for 10 years and have always seen them come right away to save the day whenever an outage. Even as kid during hurricanes I remember seeing hardworking employees outside doing their best to return power to numerous amounts of neighborhoods! Sorry got sidetracked going down memory road.

Thank you for your time, have a great day!

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing in support of the proposed FPL rate increase. With over 25 years of experience in the hospitality industry, I have witnessed firsthand the efficiency and speed with which FPL restores power following major storms.

Having originally come from the Northeast, I can confidently say that the response time here in Florida—particularly after hurricanes—is significantly faster than what I experienced following snowstorms up north. This swift restoration of service is critical, not just for residents but also for businesses trying to recover and return to normal operations.

Delays in restoring power have a profound negative impact on both economic stability and community well-being. FPL's continued investment in infrastructure and reliability is essential, and I believe this rate increase will support those efforts.

Best regards,

Dear Sir or Madam:

I am writing to voice my support for the FPL rate increase. FPL has done an extraordinary job delivering inexpensive electricity and energy to South Florida. Being in the restaurant business, I am thankful FPL works to restore power to our communities after major storms impact our region in a timely, efficient manner. I have associates in other markets where their power companies take significantly longer to get back online after weather events. These delays have a major impact on their ability to operate and recover.

Thank you for your consideration, have a nice day.

I am in support of the FPL rate increase. Being a chef in charge of a restaurant , I am grateful for how quickly FPL tries to restore power to our communities after major storms. I have friends and in other states where their electrical companies take significantly longer to get power back to businesses. These delays have a major impact on their ability to operate.
